1. How to cite

Burman, Annie C. (2023), “A Digital Concordance of Etruscan, Faliscan, and Early Latin Inscriptions from Etruria” in Etruscan and Italic Studies 26 (2023), pp. 86-101 <<https://doi.org/10.1515/etst-2023-0007>>.

2. On formatting

References have been ‘padded’ with zeroes to allow the spreadsheet to be rearranged.

- CIE numbers should be five digits (e.g. 00001, 00010, 00100, 01000, 10000).
- All other numbers should be four digits (e.g. 0001, 0010, 0100, 1000).
- Numbered inscriptions subordinate to a CIL number should be two digits (01, 10).

However:

- Trismegistos numbers are never padded.
- ET text-classes (the number before the full stop) are never padded.

For example:

CIE 208	→	CIE 00208
ET2 AS 1.290	→	ET2 AS 1.0290
CIL XI.3159(3)	→	CIL XI.3159(03)

3. Tips and tricks for using the concordance

- Check Column O, “Multiple references?”
 - Some references have multiple relevant rows, as one reference describes multiple inscriptions, editors of different corpora may disagree on whether something is the same inscription or not, or it is unclear which of multiple inscriptions a reference is about.
 - Column O will mention the corpus that is repeated in the other relevant rows. Reorganise the concordance according to that corpus’ column or copy and paste that corpus reference into the search bar to find the other relevant rows.
 - Only references that are identical are listed as common denominators in Column O.
- Use the ‘hide column’ function on columns that are not relevant for your purposes.
 - Do a web search for “[program name] + hide column” for instructions.
- Use the ‘filter’ function.
 - By filtering certain values in one column, you can control what is included in the concordance without having to manually remove entries.
 - For example:

- If you are only interested in inscriptions with Trismegistos numbers, select Column A (“Trismegistos”) and filter out all rows with the value “(Blank)”.
- If you are not interested in forgeries, select Column P (“Notes”) and filter out all rows where the P cell starts “Considered” (as this phrasing is only used in reference to forgeries and spurious/suspect inscriptions).
- If you are only interested in inscriptions that contain only numerals, de-select all values in Column P other than “Numeral only”.
- Do a web search for “[program name] + filter value” for instructions.
- Consult the bibliography below on which volume of multi-volume corpora to consult.
- Reformat references when citing.
 - Remove excess zeroes and, where applicable and move any prepositions to the front, e.g. “CIE 05214 sub” should be “sub CIE 5214”.
- Double-check the references in the corpus before publication.
- If you find a mistake or want to give feedback, please send an email to etruscanconcordance@gmail.com.
- If this concordance has been helpful in your work, consider citing it (see above).
